HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?—These employees of Cone Mills are shown looking over the booklet, "How Much Does It Cost?" which the company published this week. Purpose of the illustrated presentation, in questions and answers, is to give some idea of the great expense involved in keeping Cone Mills' plants modern and efficient. Copies of "How Much Does It Cost?" are available upon request. The employees shown above are among the 876 who have been with Cone Mills' Greensboro plants for 25 years or more. They are, seated, Mrs. Ida Strickland, employee in the drawing-in department, Revolution Division Flannel Plant; standing left to right, Frank Clark, assistant overseer of the weaving department, White Oak plant; Miss Ella Bell, spinning department, Proximity Plant and Herman Johnson, dyeing department, Print Works Plant of Cone Finishing Company.

Cone Mills Booklet Contrasts Mill Upkeep With Everyday Items

Cone Mills Corporation this week published a booklet entitled "How Much Does It Cost?" Purpose of this illustrated presentation in questions and answers is to give some idea of the great expense involved in keeping Cone Mills' plants modern and efficient. Copies of the booklet may be obtained upon request at the local plant offices.

Certain machinery replacement costs are graphically compared with costs of items used in everyday living. The booklet points out that it is necessary for Cone Mills to spend such large sums in keeping its equipment modern in order to assure the approximately 17,500 employees job security and to enable the company to compete with other plants in the textile industry.

"How Much Does It Cost?" opens with an interesting message from President Herman Cone. The summary of the booklet states that the company paid out about 46½ million dollars in wages and salaries last year. Cone Mills used about 400,000 bales of cotton for which it paid over 60 million dollars. The company paid out an additional 46 million dollars for other materials and services.

The booklet states that many more illustrations could have been added, "to say nothing of the more than 137 acres of manufacturing and storage areas that have to be kept in a state of repair."

SOME GOLF!

Cone Mills Corporation Vice President Sydney M. Cone, Jr., sank three putts between 30 and 40 feet in the semi-annual golf tournament of the American Business Club last week end.

SAILOR—F. A. Donald Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Greer, R. 5, Greensboro, is now taking a pipe fitting course with the Navy at San Diego, Calif., where he completed his boot training. He was employed at Cone Finishing Company before entering the service last June. His wife is Beverly Jane Greer.

White Oak Club Selling Tickets

White Oak Community Club will hold its annual Thanksgiving dinner, open to the public, at 6:30 next Monday night at White Oak YMCA. Tickets are on sale by members of the committee headed by Mrs. Ray Tugman. They are $1.25.

Other members of the committee Mrs. Vance Trollinger, Mrs. Otto Burnside, Mrs. John Paschal and Mrs. Carson Rhew.

Rev. Club Selling Brunswick Stew Today

Revolution Community Club is having their annual Brunswick Stew sale today at the Revolution apartment building. Tickets for this stew have been in great demand and practically all of the stew has been sold in advance.

This is the main money-making project the Revolution group has each year, and the proceeds will be used in the community for the worthy calls made on the club women.

White Oak Matron's To Meet November 18

White Oak Matron's Club will meet on Wednesday, November 18 at 11:00 o'clock at the White Oak YMCA. After the business session, Mrs. Stoni Johnson will show some Christmas decorations, and demonstrate the making of some things for table and home holiday season.

Anyone wishing to bring a snack for their noon lunch will be served coffee by the club.

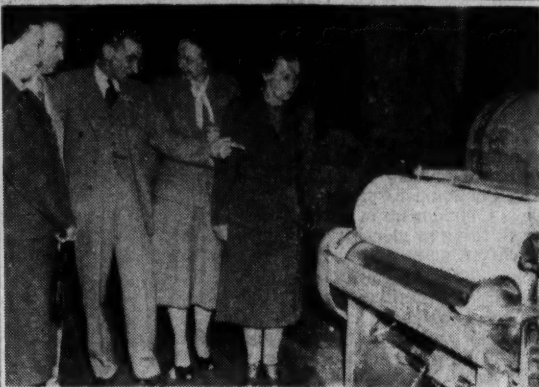

Mrs. W. O. Leonard, president, cordially invites the community women to attend.

Kennel Club Has Outing At Camp

North Greensboro Kennel Club had approximately 50 people present at a hamburger supper last Saturday at Camp Herman. The supper was prepared by ladies of the club and supervised by Mrs. G. G. Merritt, better known to club members as "Mama."

After supper highlight of the evening was playing bingo. Prizes were cakes donated by ladies of the club.

Guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Bell and Mrs. W. R. Troxler all of High Point road.

TEACHERS ON TOUR—Approximately 50 teachers in the Greensboro City Schools are touring Proximity Plant and Revolution Division Flannel Plant this afternoon in observance of Industry-Education Day. Sponsored by Greensboro Industries, Inc. as part of National Education Week, similar tours are going on today in many of the major industries in Greensboro. Representative of industry visited in the schools of the city today and were luncheon guests. The above photo was made during last year's tour at Revolution Flannel Plant with Stokes S. Rawlins as guide for this group.

Teachers Are Touring Two Cone Plants Today

This is the day set aside each year for Industry and Education to look in on each other a bit and gain some idea of what is going on in these respective fields. Educators gain a clearer understanding of industry's purpose and representatives of industry gain a better insight into the works being done by the schools today through this reciprocal visitation program.

Wednesday night several hundred teachers were guests of Greensboro Industries, Inc., sponsors of Industry-Education Day, at a dinner at Greensboro Country Club. Speaker for this event was the well-known industrial relations counsellor and pastor of Myers Park Baptist Church, Dr. George D. Heaton.

"There is a threat to American education and to American industry," declared the speaker. "Individuals in this country would exploit the misunderstanding and ignorance of certain people by concentrating on half-truths in order to divide them into groups so that they may battle each other," he said.

Fifty-three teachers are touring two Cone Mills plants this afternoon. Twenty-four from Gillespie Park School are touring Revolution Division Flannel Plant; 23 from Central Junior High School and six from the administrative and supply staff are touring Proximity Plant.

Representatives of Cone Mills who visited the schools today are William O. Leonard, Jr., George Hamer, Cleo Honeycutt, Sherman Basinger, John Scott, Bill Bogart, Glenn McDonald, Marshall Gardner, Coley Phillips, Chester Arnold, Lennie Ritter, Stokes Rawlins, Luther Smith and Leah Nell Masters.

Cone Mills Inc. Names Advertising Agency

New York, N. Y., Nov. 11—Cone Mills Inc. has appointed Dowd, Redfield and Johnstone, Inc., New York, as its advertising agency to be effective January 1, 1954. It was made known today.

One of the country's largest producers of textiles, largely cotton, the Cone Mills are known for work and sportswear denims as well as corduroys, cotton flannels, plisse, twills and other fabrics for apparel and household use. Other products include Cone Towels and fabrics of man-made fibres.

John B. Knox, agency vice president, will be account executive.

Church Invitation

St. Paul's Methodist Church is issuing a special invitation here to all natives of Chatham, Randolph, and Alamance Counties to attend the 11 o'clock service Sunday, November 15.

Rev. J. H. Trolinger, pastor, would like for people from these counties to get together and talk over old times back home.

Represents A.A.I.E.

The Textorian manager represented the American Association of Industrial Editors at the luncheon meeting of the South Atlantic Council of Industrial Editors at Sedgfield Inn yesterday.

JET JOCKEY—Herman Cone, president of Cone Mills Corporation, boards a jet aircraft at Eglin Air Force Base, Florida for a 15-minute ride at more than 400 miles an hour. The ride earned for Mr. Cone the title of Jet Jockey, to add to other titles: "Honorary Doughboy," "Buddy Seat Rider" and "Old Salt" which he achieved on his visit with Army, Navy and Marine bases last week as one of the 80 leaders in various fields who were especially invited by Secretary of Defense Wilson. This was the Defense Department's Joint Civilian Orientation Conference which began in the Pentagon, October 30.

Recreation Head Speaks To Y's Men

Oka Hester, director of Recreation for the city of Greensboro, spoke to Proximity Y's Men's Club last Tuesday night. He told about his work as a representative of the State Department in helping set up a recreation program in Berlin, Germany.

President Fred Ziprik led the business session during which members discussed the fitting of the new Y's Men's Club jackets they are having made.

Proximity P.T.A. Discusses TV Effect On Education

"The Influence of Television on Education" was topic for last Tuesday night's Parent-Teacher Association meeting at Proximity School. The program in the form of a play was presented by Miss Martin's third grade.

Ellen Stanley played the part of a little girl who was subjected to TV influence which was detrimental to her, while character portraying food, sunshine, exercise and water tried to act to her advantage.

Mrs. W. E. Stanley read a report on the growing effect of television on children. This pointed out that approximately six hours per day is being spent by individuals watching TV programs for an average of 40 hours a week. She concluded that only the future holds the answer as to the results of this on the present growing generation.

Merlin Beaver had the devotional exercise. Mrs. Martin's third grade won the Elementary award and Mrs. Alexander's eighth grade won the Junior high award for having the largest parent attendance.

The P.T.A. is sponsoring a baby contest, popularity contest and talent show in a fund raising campaign. The awards for the contests and talent show were scheduled for Friday, November 20 at 7:30 but due to the Senior High-High Point football game, rescheduled for the same night, the program will possibly be postponed until December 4th.

Cone Mills President Member Of Civilian Group To Study Defense

"I feel much better about our defense strength than ever before," declared Herman Cone, president of Cone Mills Corporation, when he returned to his office last Monday morning after a week's visit with Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine bases.

Tabardrey Plant Mgr. Lt. Gov. of Kiwanis

Arthur Makin, manager of Tabardrey Plant of Cone Mills Corporation, Haw River, will assume duties as lieutenant governor of the Fifth Division Kiwanis International in North and South Carolina in January. He is a member of the Haw River Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Makin was elected to the office at the convention held in Columbia, S. C. last week.

The Tabardrey manager has been a Kiwanian for the past eight years, with 100 per cent attendance during that time.

Entering Kiwanis first in the Graham Club, Mr. Makin transferred to Haw River when the Graham Kiwanians formed a club there five years ago. He served as the Haw River club's first president and has been a director during the five-year period.

Mr. Makin has been a member of the Haw River School board for seven years, serving as chairman one year; is a member of the board of trustees of the Haw River Baptist Church, and a member of the Haw River Civic Association.

He is also a past director of Ala-

Mr. Cone was one of 80 American leaders who were invited to make the tour as members of the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference as paying guests of the Defense Department.

The invitation, signed by Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson, stated that the purpose of the conference was to acquaint the group with the status and problems of the defense program, and to invite the views of the conference members on these subjects.

The program opened with a reception at the Mayflower Hotel on Thursday evening, October 29 and reconvened the following morning at the Pentagon where discussions were conducted by the Secretary of Defense, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force and their Chiefs of Staff. On October 30, the group went to Quantico Marine Base, Va., for a demonstration of amphibious landing operations.

On the following day, the participants were flown by military aircraft to Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, to witness a demonstration of tactical and strategic flight operations.

Next, the conference group went to Fort Benning, Ga., for a demonstration of the Army's infantry fire power and airborne operations.

Final lap of the tour took them to the U. S. Naval Base at Norfolk, Va., where they engaged in sea-power task force operations. They were on board the Aircraft Carrier Tarawa during the violent storm that swept the Northeast last Friday.

Added to his certificate making Mr. Cone an honorary critic of the fast carrier task force operations was another, that of "Old Salt," fully qualifying him to walk fore and aft in Northeast gales up to 60 knots (wind velocity of 69 miles per hour).

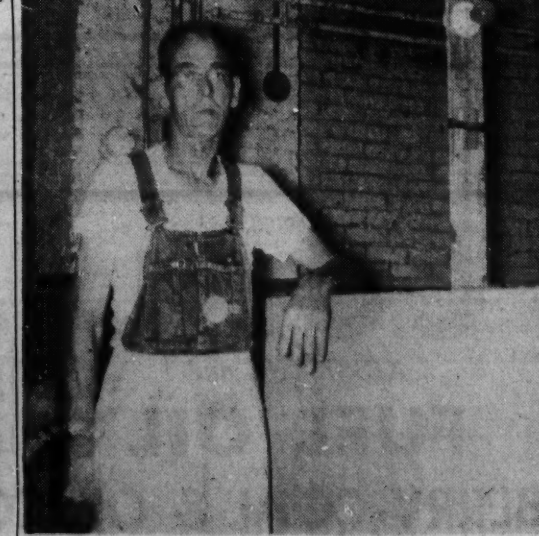

The title of "Honorary Doughboy" was bestowed by the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., for having been duly indoctrinated in RETIREMENT GIFT—Employees in the Spooling Department presented Robert Loman with a table radio last week when he retired after 47 years with White Oak Plant. Representing the department are, left to right, Lorena Childress, Homer Jennings, Orin Harris, making presentation; Garfield Gregory, Mrs. Bessie Andrews, Roby Holt, Mrs. Nellie Duggins, Mr. Loman, Mrs. Blanch Roberts and Mrs. Lamer D. Wilkerson.

EDNA PLANT SUGGESTION—Robert W. Oliver, employee at Edna Plant in Reidsville, recently received a cash award from Cone Mills Corporation for suggesting that a light be placed above the quill pen to notify the proper people when the chute is stopped up.

Cannot Be Laughed Off

Not only politicians but partisan members of the press as well as radio and television commentators will have a field day over recent developments spearheaded by Attorney General Brownell.

Critics of the administration are certainly not in error in claiming that there is much political significance attached to the activity of the Attorney General. Without any desire to discredit the findings which intimately touch a former chief executive, we must in all fairness state that the timing is very improper, and we might add, very poor from a strategic standpoint.

Whether or not the Attorney General desired to overshadow the returns from the recent elections by his revelations, it is certain that most people believe that those defeats in his party were responsible for his present public releases.

We consider the release of the charges at this period unwise and damaging to the very cause the Attorney General represents.

Looking at the White affair from another angle, we also feel that not even Mr. Truman himself can waive the charges aside by dealing in political vilification or by assuming a "holier than thou" attitude. There are too many questions that should be answered even though the White case may appear to be ancient history.

Not even a president of the United States should consider himself beyond reproach or be permitted to handle spies or other enemies of this country as he sees fit.

Even though some may claim that activities to control espionage in this country may at times threaten some of our freedoms, this paper is absolute in its belief that neither Mr. Harry Truman nor anyone else has the right to employ, promote or condone the activities of a person that is known by the FBI to be a spy. Innocent people should be protected and their rights safeguarded. Guilty ones should be detected, exposed and prosecuted.

It is also difficult to swallow the explanation of the most generous letter that the former President wrote White accepting his resignation.

If, as Mr. Truman claims, that was his means of firing White because of the reports of disloyalty, we cannot understand why it was necessary for him to write such a highly complimentary letter.

We are inclined to agree with Mr. Truman that some of his activities as President definitely portrayed a militant attitude toward the Communists. On the other hand, he was very naive, uninformed, indifferent, or too soft toward the Communists and their cause for it is now a matter of record that his administration had many unAmerican people in key positions.

Again, let us say that the timing of the present administrative leaders was very bad; in fact, their whole procedure cannot be considered as either strategic or helpful. On the other hand, it is very apparent that the White affair "smells to high heaven" and cannot be laughed off.

Thoughts On The Business Of Life

Joy is spiritual prosperity. That motto above your desk—"Smile!" How did that ever get into so many business offices? Does a smile help business? Try it. Joy makes the face shine, and he that hath a merry heart hath a continual feast.—W. C. Cretz.

I never knew an early-rising, hard-working, prudent man, careful of his earnings and strictly honest, who complained of hard luck. A good character, good habits and iron industry are impregnable to the assaults of all ill-luck that fools ever dreamed.—Addison.

Before I started on my trip around the world, someone gave me one of the most valuable hints I have ever had. It consists

LISTEN AMERICANS!

...by George S. Benson
President of Harding College

No one should be surprised at the U. S. Army's report on the horrible Communist atrocities in Korea. The atrocities are shocking but not surprising. The fact that a great many Americans were surprised shows clearly how little our people know about the true nature of Communism and its diabolical conspiracy to conquer the world. Mass murder is the standard practice of the Communists. And yet many Americans still will not accept this fact. Inhuman torture is a standard tactic of the Communists. And yet the report that 6,113 American GIs died torture deaths in North Korea surprised even a number of Congressmen, according to news reports.

The army's report described the nature of the slaughtering of American prisoners as "bestial and sadistic." Atrocities horrifying even to war-hardened soldiers were related. But the significant thing is not the sickening nature of these evil acts. The significant thing, which all Americans must at last recognize, is that Communists do not distinguish between good and evil. They consider torturing and mass murder as necessary steps in world Communist "progress." Thus butchering of innocent people is Communism in its true nature. In their creed there is no such thing as morality, justice, or sin. There is no God, no hereafter, no recompense.

Bakunin, one of the first Russians to join with Marx in the founding of Communism, described it as a new "religion." "Brethren," he told the fanatics of the Russian underworld, "I come to announce unto you a new gospel, which must penetrate to the very ends of the world: The old world must be destroyed and replaced with a new one. The Lie must be stamped out and give way to Truth. The first lie is God; the second lie is Right..."

This fundamental truth about the nature of Communism has been repeatedly confirmed to the American people by leading ex-Communists and FBI agents who have, in disguise, worked their way into the top ranks of the Communist apparatus here. Matthew Cvetich, who lived nine years within the Communist inner circle while serving the FBI, told me that 20,000,000 Chinese had been murdered since the Reds took over China and that the plan was to kill 100,000,000, or 25 per cent of the population. He said that Red leaders often expressed the belief that it would be necessary to murder one-third of the people of America if they were victorious here—to stamp out all seeds of opposition.

Clearly recognizing the true nature of Communism since I first began to study it, I have already advocated the outlawing of this evil conspiracy in America. We are foolish indeed to give legal protection to these mass murderers who hope to make America their final great victim.

I've never met a person, I don't care what his condition, in whom I could not see possibilities. I don't care how much a man may consider himself a failure, I believe in him, for he can change the thing that is wrong in his life anytime he is prepared and ready to do it. Whenever he develops the desire, he can take away from his life the thing that is defeating it. The capacity for reformation and change lies within.—Dr. Preston Bradley.

A self-contained nation is a backward nation, with large numbers of people either permanently out of work, or very poorly paid in purchasing power. A nation which trades freely with all the world, selling to others those commodities which it can best produce, and buying from others those commodities which others can best produce, is by far the best conditioned nation for all practical purposes.—Walter Parker.

Hold yourself responsible for a higher standard than anybody else expects of you. Never excuse yourself. Never pity yourself. Be a hard master to yourself—and be lenient to everybody else.—Beecher.

There can be no peace when there is not God in the hearts of men. When you drive the devil out of the human heart the stream of life will be sweet, happy and peaceful.—Charles Clifford Peale, D.D.

MUSICIANS AND FAMILY—This photograph of Pianist Harold Cone and Mrs. Cone, known professionally as Madeleine Carabo, violinist; and their children Johnny, eight, and Clara, six, illustrated Don Bishop's column "Dixie All Over" last Sunday. Occasion of the feature from New York which appeared in papers all over the South is the recital next Sunday, November 15, at Town Hall in New York, by Pianist Cone. Mr. Cone is the son of retired Chairman of the Board of Cone Mills Corporation Bernard M. Cone and Mrs. Cone, 1020 Summit Avenue. The artist's mother, who was his first teacher; his wife and children will be in the audience for the 3 p.m. concert. Although Mr. Cone is a composer, he will not play any of his own works at this time. He will play compositions of Frescobaldi-Resighi, Mendelssohn, Copland and Chopin. Mr. Cone has a studio in Carnegie Hall where he spends many hours a day working at the piano. The musicians and family live at Briarcliff Manor, near New York City. The Cones appeared with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra last Spring.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

Worry, anxiety and trouble has clouded the life of almost every man some time or other. To escape the pangs of life's perplexing circumstances, man gropes about for some material thing or condition that would provide some ray of happiness. Foolishly I have often heard the remark, and so have you, that if only wealth could somehow supplant the present situation that one finds himself in he would be happy. This wealth, we would so erroneously put faith in cannot provide happiness. This wealth which we seek and is so oftentimes borrowed, stolen, sold and squandered cannot bring peace of mind. Ease, comfort and enjoyment, the by-products of wealth, are welcomed into every man's life, but true happiness is not gained by a life of such luxury. Man may have much praise heaped upon his head, he may have a high paying position and be the proud possessor of plenty, but here again we reach a negative conclusion as the basis of true happiness. In the laboratory of life, after many enthusiastic experiments have failed to produce that for which we all see—happiness—we turn in desperation to try another plan, that plan of making ourselves happy by giving happiness. Here we shout in great jubilation "Eureka" having found that this experiment of thoughtfulness for others is truly the chief source of true happiness.

Pythianism seeks to disperse happiness. Herein it teaches that you cannot make others happy until you earnestly try, and when you honestly try to propagate happiness, you will wonder if others are as happy as you are. Pythianism tells us that our efforts have made others happy, then we will experience true happiness. May I raise a question here? How can anyone have a happy life that is haunted by the ghost of selfishness? Selfishness is an evil that seeks for oneself, wealth, position and power without regard of the welfare and happiness of others. It is selfishness that has produced so much misery and distrust, and only as we seek "to do unto others as we ourselves would be dealt with," only as we are motivated by kindness, a generous impulse, a life of usefulness and genuine affection can a man experience the sweets fruits of happiness.

At this Christmas season when your Pythian Order seeks to bring some cheer and happiness into the lives of our little children at the Home at Clayton, give generously and with love and you will yourself taste something of the spirit of Him who taught "that it is more blessed to give than to receive."

The three children looking to our Lodge for Christmas are Lawrence Talbert, Bobby Woodbury and Rachel Jordan. Their names may ring a note in your heart as each of them are from local families having been forced to give up their tender offspring by some unfortunate circumstance.

Pythian Mack Davis has been forced to return to St. Leo's hospital. He is in room 49. Pythian Virgil Pace remains a patient at Wesley Long and from the last report is not doing so well. Pythian Walt Maness was recognized after so long a time from his Lodge.

SpeaksGUARD WELL YOUR FREEDOMS

I have had several experiences this week that have caused me to want to say some very positive things to all of us concerning the freedom we enjoy as American citizens. I have talked to several people who have lost some measure of that freedom—lost it because they did not understand it. Everyone of us knows that there is more freedom for everyone here in America than anywhere else, but I think that altogether too few of us really know what these freedoms are and how they can be lost. We know too little about what our attitudes ought to be because we possess these freedoms.

If you were asked to name your freedoms as an American citizen, I wonder what kind of a list you would make. Certainly you would put down that you are free to worship God as you please, yet I wonder how many of you are going to exercise that freedom tomorrow morning. How many of you will be in church, proving your right to possess the freedom to worship God as you please?

All of us would say that we are free to speak and free to publish as we wish. Of course, that comes within the limitations of the common good, but every man is guaranteed freedom of speech and freedom of press. And in making your list, you certainly would include the freedom of your own home to night, for one of the fundamental guarantees that every American citizen has is the guarantee that his home will be his castle and no one may violate that home.

We know that we are possessed of the freedom to acquire property and profits, and as you make your list larger, I am sure you would include in it your freedom to work where you please and in the kind of work that you want to do. There are many more freedoms of course—the freedom to be judged by those who are our equal on a jury, and the freedom that we possess to make contracts with people and to see that those contracts are valid and made secure. There are many things we talk about as our freedoms, but what concerns me is this—these freedoms are always in danger of being lost. They are in danger of being lost in part because you and I do not keep them alive.

We are in danger of losing freedom by a behavior that violates the freedom others. You destroy, for example, the freedom of speech when you deny it to someone else. You destroy the freedom to worship God as a man pleases when by your prejudice you refuse to allow him to exercise that freedom. And wherever prejudice lifts its ugly head, that is a threat to the freedom of all of us. Everyone of us is in danger of losing his freedom, because in modern society we are brought into groups and organizations, and one of the pressures that a group imposes upon us is to conform to the will of the group. Sometimes the will of the group violates our personal conscience.

It was such a case that confronted me in a man who had lost his freedom just this week. He belonged to a group that he believed would be a very helpful and very fine group. Then he saw that group begin to take action, and the actions went against his conscience. He didn't believe in the use of force and violence against people who disagreed with him, but his group committed him to it and he was embarrassed because he was no longer a free man. He had to belong to the group, he felt, in order to keep his economic security.

There are a lot of ways in which freedom is endangered—ways far more significant than anything that an outside enemy could ever do. But I think the greatest danger to freedom is in you and in me. There is a law of human nature that is very embarrassing to free people and the law goes something like this: "We are more willing to sacrifice for what we wish to have and wish to become than we are willing to sacrifice to keep what we have and what we have become." That is always the danger of a democracy. People possess wonderful values, people possess great freedoms, and yet they are not willing to make the necessary sacrifice to keep them. We are always in danger because those who do not have these things and wish to have them are always willing to make greater sacrifices than we free people are willing to make.

So, just for a moment, I want to talk to you about the way that we got our freedom, for we must never forget it. We hear people talking about their rights and privileges today, and when we talk about our rights and our privileges and our freedoms, we forget the most important thing—that our freedom was obtained for us by people who were not thinking of their rights and their privileges, but by people who were thinking of their duties. Their duties to themselves and to others. And if I had any one suggestion to make to the American people whereby we could more consistently strengthen our democracy than by any other way, it would be "let's quit talking about what our rights and our privileges are, and let's begin to talk about our duties." People who had a sense of duty made great sacrifices in order to colonize this land of ours. And people who had a great sense of duty made sacrifices in order to achieve political and economic and social freedoms as well as religious freedoms. If we are going to keep freedom, we must keep it in the same way that we got it—we must keep it by an emphasis upon our duties instead of talking so glibly about our rights and our privileges. For whenever we are more concerned about our rights and our privileges than we are about the duties that gave these qualities birth, then we are in danger of losing them.

The people who made us free were people who believed in the power of righteousness; they did not believe in the righteousness of power. Today, too often people become strong, and because they belong to groups that are strong, they think that the very power they possess is righteous. But freedom is gained and freedom is kept by people who believe in the power of righteousness, and not in the righteousness of power.

Now all of this has a bearing on your job. These people that I talked to this week had lost much of their freedom. So you see on your job you are free to succeed or to fail, and a man must be willing to take the consequences of what he does. That is the real freedom. The freedom to make good or the freedom to fail. And if a man doesn't measure up, then he has to pay the price for it. Everyone of us is free to be a good person or free to be a bad person, and one of the individuals that I was talking to had lost his freedom because he had chosen to be a bad person and the consequences were very serious. You are a free person; you are free to become a better worker or an inferior worker. And as you make your choice, you have to pay the price. That is the real meaning of freedom. You are free to be a safe worker or an unsafe worker. You are free to be fair or you are free to be prejudiced and unfair. But there are always prices that we pay when we exercise our freedom in the wrong way. So, I speak to you tonight in terms of what I think everyone of us can do to keep our freedom as American citizens. It is a matter of choice and I say to you that if you are going to keep on being free, then you must first of all keep your confidence and faith in your own personal work and value and don't ever allow it to be lost or absorbed in a group. Don't ever allow the conscience of a group to become your own conscience. Don't ever allow the pressure of any group to rob you of the dignity of your own personal value. And if you are going to keep on with your freedom, then you must believe in your freedom to make good choices and exercise that freedom and unhesitatingly stand for the things that are honest, stand for what is right, stand for what will bring the greatest advantage to the greatest number.

Above all else, you have to exercise this freedom you possess to believe in a God who has a great purpose not only for you, but for all people, and to make the purpose of your life a part of that purpose of God's. I shall never forget a wonderful poem that a Japanese Christian wrote when he said, "In my hand there is a secret plan and my hand is big, big because the God who dwells in this hand knows what he will do for the world, using my hand."

I tell you our freedom is always in danger, but it will always be secure when a man uses his life to express that freedom within the plan and the purpose of God for the advantage of all men.

Rev. Club to Donate To Palsy School

Revolution Community Club met on Wednesday morning, November 6 at the home of Mrs. Clem Dowdy. Mrs. Kermit Ritter gave the devotional, basing her talk on Luke, 21st chapter.

She reminded her listeners that the use of time, talents as well as money is good stewardship.

Mrs. Hannibal Moore, president was in the chair for a business meeting and final plans for the Brunswick Stew sale to be held to day were made.

Plans were also made for the clubs "Christmas Cheer" to "shut-ins" in the community, and it was decided that each one bring a cash contribution to the December meeting, which will be presented to the Greensboro Palsy School for something needed.

The needs of both the Y.W.C.A. for Negroes and the Metropolitan Nursery for Negro children, ages two to four years, were presented. Some used household equipment as pots, pans, lamps, lamp shades, rugs and pictures are being collected for the two residences for the use in these two very worthwhile projects for Negroes of our city.

The morning club meeting was well attended and the group decided to have the December meeting a luncheon meeting. It will be on Wednesday, December 2 in the Revolution Club Room.

Mrs. Moore wishes to extend a cordial invitation to the club women to attend. Reservations must be made through the telephone chairman. Let's close the club year of 1953 with this fellowship Christmas dinner.

At the close of the business meeting, a "lunch snack" was served by Mrs. Dowdy and Mrs. Lowell Steele.

How To Do a Home Paint Job

Home decorating is more and more being accomplished by the family. There's probably an economic reason for this, but there is also the very important one that paint laboratories have created products which make application by an amateur more than just easy. For example, rubber base one-coat wall paints can be used to redo a whole room in a few hours. Used with these paints, a roller applicator makes painting not only less of a chore, but really kind of fun. Because rubber-base paints dry in twenty minutes, mother can repaint the living room in her favorite color after dad and the kiddies are packed off to office and school and she can have everything back in place long before the family arrives home again.

But, says a home decorating institute, if you're tackling the job yourself, there are certain rules to remember. Following these rules will not only make a professional-looking paint job possible, but will also make your task a simpler one—and make the result longer lasting. (1) Prepare the surface properly. (2) Use superior equipment. (3) Use the right paint for the right place. Each rule is equal in importance.

First, have near at hand all the items needed for the job: a stiff putty knife for scraping off loose paint and flaking plaster; a broad, flexible putty knife for smoothing out filler when there are holes or cracks in plaster or wood to be filled; several sheets of fine sandpaper for smoothing out filler cracks and holes. (For an easier and better job use a sandpaper holder.) If you're using a roller (and you'll do a faster and better job if you do), you'll also need a brush for finishing off wall and ceiling corners and woodwork. Too, you'll want plenty of soft wet cloths for wiping up spots as you paint, and a flat stick for stirring. When equipment is assembled, scrape off loose paint and plaster. Fill holes and cracks in plaster with spackle, holes in woodwork
